Research and Guidance Cell

VIJAYGARH JYOTISH RAY COLLEGE

8/2, Bejoygarh, Kolkata 700032

Date: 7th May, 2019

About the seminar

Human being uses microbes from prehistoric times. Starting from making curd, brewing alcohol knowledge of microbiology has been used in our daily life. With the advent of modern civilization, new technologies have developed and microbes as well as microbiology are being utilized. Microbes can perform various types of functions so they are utilized as “workhorses” in various industrial processes. New streams of modern biology have been developed using microbes as tool. Synthetic biology, biosynthetic preparation, bioremediation, biopolymer preparation, biomineralization etc all are upcoming streams of life sciences.

The main goal of our seminar is to encourage research in various fields of microbiology. This would act as a platform for the young researchers and scientists to share their ideas and views. The seminar would focus on various aspects of Basic and Applied Microbiology. Along with beginners and youngsters, renowned experts in this field will share their opinions and advice the researchers.
